TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB GIVEN RARE MUSICAL TREAT

Raymond Harmon, Noted Baritone of Pasadena, Contributes to Excellent Program With Recital--Charles T.
Ferry Renders Fine Solo Numbers

CLUB WORK JUSTIFIES ITSELF DECLARES MRS. DOW

Nominations for Officers for Ensuing Year Reported by Committee--Proposed Changes to By-Laws Are Presented--Donation to Building Fund

The decoration of the Masonic Temple with jars, little and big, of deep pink roses in combination with stocks of purple lilac, made an appropriate setting for the artistic recital put on by Raymond Harmon, baritone of Pasadena, and Charles T. Ferry, composer, pianist, who contributed wonderful accompaniments to the songs and also played solo numbers. Mr. Harmon's song repertoire included: "Life" (Curtis); "The Last Hour" (Gurley); "Just You" (Dichmont); "Awake, Beloved" (music by Mr. Ferry); two French songs, "Blue are Her Eyes" (Winterwall); "Yesterday and Today" (Spross); "Evening Song" (Gilbert); "Spring" (Rachmaninoff); "Lullaby" (Godard); ending with numbers in which he sang in unison with the Ampico.

Mr. Ferry's compositions and interpretations proved most unusual and a great treat to the music lovers of the club. They included two numbers from his "Sea Cycle"--"Thoughts of the Sea" and "Call of the Sea," descriptive music which inspired wonder, respect and admiration. Most beautifully and ingeniously expressed were the soft under and overtones of the lapping water along the shore, the long roll of the surf and the boom of the billows blending with the shore chorus. Prelude in C minor and "The Hummingbird" were his last numbers, the prelude being especially enjoyed.

Mrs. Charles Hutchinson, president, called the meeting to order as usual and made a number of announcements including a reminder of the state federation meeting at Yosemite valley and her desire that the club should be represented there.

Gift From Mr. Jensen

Another announcement, greeted with a burst of applause, was the state-

DIPLOMAS ISSUED TO LARGE CLASS

Largest Class of Graduates in History of University of Southern California

The largest class in the history of the University of California received their diplomas today at the graduating exercises held in the Greek theater at Berkeley.

According to the announcement of Recorder James Sutton, there were 1335 candidates for bachelors' degrees, 186 for masters' degrees, 39 for juris doctor, 26 for the degree of doctor of philosophy, 30 for doctor of medicine, 41 for doctor of dental surgery, 50 for the graduate degree in pharmacy and 7 for the bachelor of laws degree.

Last year the degrees awarded numbered 1291.

Bishop Adna Wright Leonard of the Methodist church delivered the baccalaureate sermon Sunday afternoon in the Greek theater.

President and Mrs. David P. Barrows gave their usual reception to the senior class yesterday afternoon.

Miss Dorothy Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Williams, 208 South Orange avenue and Kenneth Beldin, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Beldin, 212 North Jackson street, are members of this year's graduating class.

Katherine Renshaw, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Renshaw, is also a graduate of this year's class. Miss Renshaw is a graduate of Glendale Union high school. She and her mother lived here until recently; they have been living in Berkeley for the past year.

PEACEMAKER SENT TO HOSPITAL FOR REPAIRS

CHICAGO, May 11.--Michael Rives stopped an old-fashioned duel here today. Two men, quarrelling on the street, drew guns as Michael approached. He stepped between them. Both fired. Both bullets struck Michael. The duellers fled while a policeman sent Michael to a hospital. He will recover.

Poets are born, not made; and the world is still trying to decide whether this is a boast or an alibi.

"Ten Commandments" Regulate Marital Life

(By International News Service)
PARIS, May 11.--A new "Ten Commandments" regulating the relationship between wife and husband, have just been approved by a French judge, and now that worthy citizen has had to disconnect his telephone at night to escape the denunciations of angry women.

The marital "Ten Commandments" were written by a French officer. Returning from the front, he found that his wife had become too independent during the war, wore knee-length skirts, used a choice lot of slang and didn't lower her eyes when she got the "glad-eye" from other men.

The returned officer decided to apply some of the kind of discipline that made Foch's military machine move. He wrote them up in his wife's boudoir. She tore them down and served notice that she wouldn't obey them. The husband sued for divorce and the judge said he was right and set him free.

The new "Ten Commandments" provide that a wife:

- 1--Must make a weekly report of what she has accomplished.
- 2--Must keep a daily account of household expenses.
- 3--Must keep everything in the house clean, in order and in good repair.
- 4--Do nothing without her husband's permission.
- 5--Execute her husband's orders without discussion.
- 6--Always be polite towards her husband.
- 7--Use no slang and tell no lies.
- 8--Dress simply and as befits a husband's payroll.
- 9--Never wear gaudy dresses or play the "vampire."
- 10--Never buy any clothes without consulting her husband.

French feminist leaders grew so angry when they read the "commandments" that they just couldn't talk. A woman's magazine is calling for suggestions for commandments for husbands.

ISLAND OF YAP, WHICH THE UNITED STATES WANTS SAFEGUARDED

First and exclusive photographs of the island of Yap, which is now the subject of controversy between the United States, Japan and the allied governments. Naval reports describe the island of Yap, as a low-lying bit of land in the Caroline islands, a little west of Guam, an American possession in the Pacific. It is surrounded by reefs, extending not farther than a mile and a half off shore, and has two principal harbors, Rull and Tomil, easily navigated by ships in ordinary weather. There are good anchorages and boat landings. The harbor improvements have been built by the natives. There are no fortifications on the island, and the only armed force there is a small native guard. The natives are peaceful and take readily to trades taught them during the German occupation. The chief exports of Yap are copra and beche de mer, which are paid for in either goods or stone money. This stone money is a very peculiar feature of Yap's currency system. It consists of limestones, from 6 to 12 feet in diameter, and is brought entirely from the Pelew islands in native canoes. The shells of pearl oysters are also used as currency. Yap boasts of a number of good roads, but no draught animals or artificial means of transportation. A canal, about 15 feet wide, traverses the northern part of the island for about half a mile, affording a passage for the small boats and canoes of the natives. The illustration shows the coaling station at the harbor of Tomil, on the isle of Yap.

Y.M.C.A. ROUND-UP FOR THIS COUNTY

Large Number of Boys From Many Communities To Be
L. C. Brand's Guests

On Friday, May 27, will come the Y. M. C. A. round-up, which will be a big and interesting event. L. C. Brand has invited the county organization to hold it on his aviation field, the invitation has been accepted and it is expected that at least 300 boys from many communities will be entertained.

If present plans are carried out they will arrive between 3 and 6 o'clock and will be given their camp site locations and be permitted in inspect Mr. Brand's airships.

In the evening there will be a big camp fire, at which Mr. Brand will welcome the boys as host, and Charles Paddock, world's champion sprinter, who will be a guest, will tell of his experiences in races in which he has participated. Camp fire games and stunts will occupy the balance of the evening, the boys turning in at 9:30.

Reveille will be sounded at 6:00 a. m., and the pancake contest will be on. The object of the competition will be to see who will be the first to bake and eat his pancake.

Later in the morning aviators will do fancy air stunts and after that the boys will take a short hike into the hills back of the Brand estate, returning in time to cook their dinner over their own camp fires, to break up camp and return home Saturday afternoon.

NAVAL RESERVE TO TAKE CRUISE

The second and fifth divisions of the Naval Reserve force, made up largely of Glendale men, are going to cruise to Avalon on Sunday. Four hours shore liberty at Avalon and men taking this trip will be in line for trip to Santa Barbara over May 29 and 30.

These trips will be made on U. S. S. Eagle No. 12 and U. S. S. Eagle No. 34. These ships are now stationed at San Pedro for the exclusive use of the Naval Reserve force for training purposes. All Glendale naval reservists should take advantage of these trips as they are instructive and enjoyable and are necessary to maintain confirmation and to draw retainer pay. Reserve men wishing to take this trip communicate with Lieut. (j. g.) Allen (j. g.) Ray L. Morrow, Glendale 1110-J, prior to Saturday.

MARCEL DUPUYS STOWAWAY AGAIN

(By International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.--He's in again. Marcel Dupuys, 16, probably the most famous war orphan, who entered the United States by hiding on a transport, was adopted by Peter B. Kyne, noted author, traveled with him on a lecture tour, was entered in an exclusive school, ran away to enter the movies, caused Mr. and Mrs. Kyne so much anguish that they threw up their hands in dismay and caused him to be deported, has arrived in Baltimore again as a stowaway.

And today Kyne received word that Marcel wants to be readopted, promising to be a good boy ever afterward.

The social session will be held in the Legion hall and guests will be members of the Legion, the Woman's Auxiliary and their friends.

Each lady will bring a box luncheon which will be sold at auction. An entertainment program of many pleasant features is being planned.

Members of the committee are James F. McBryde, Jamie Shea, Mr. Day, Gilbert Cowan and Mrs. McBryde, who represents the Woman's Auxiliary.

Plans for a right royal good time at their meeting on the evening of May 20 were made by an American Legion entertainment committee which met in the office of Attorney James F. McBryde last evening.

The social session will be held in the Legion hall and guests will be members of the Legion, the Woman's Auxiliary and their friends.

Each lady will bring a box luncheon which will be sold at auction. An entertainment program of many pleasant features is being planned.

THE SCHOOL BOND ELECTION

Mr. Voter: Remember the School Bond Election, May 24, 1921, 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.; polling places, Central avenue school for those living north of Doran street; Corritos avenue school for those living south of Windsor road; Intermediate school for those living between these two streets. Amount of proposed issue, $199,000.

This amount is absolutely necessary to put our schools in good working condition and take care of the tremendous growth that Glendale has had in the last two years.

Remember that the cost to you is small. If these bonds are voted it will increase your tax rate 16 cents or less on the $100; that is to say, if you are the owner of a home worth $5000 assessed at 40 per cent of its value, the cost to you of these bonds for the first year would be $3.20.

The benefits far outweigh the cost. Do not fail to go to the polls and vote.

NOTED SINGER WILL ENTERTAIN AT LAWN FETE

Glendale Kitchen at Monte
Vista Home to Benefit
From Proceeds

The latest acquisition to the program to be given at the lawn fete for the benefit of the kitchen at the Monte Vista Home for Undernourished Children--and she is indeed an acquisition--is Lillian Selbel Carr, mezzo-soprano.

Miss Carr is a pupil of Mary Forest Ganz of Chicago. She has also studied with Dwight Edwards of Los Angeles and Ralph Laughlin of the same city. She is a graduate of the Chicago Musical College and the American Conservatory of Chicago. She has taught voice in Pasadena and Los Angeles; she was today the guest of Mrs. A. H. Montgomery and expressed herself as delighted with Glendale.

Those who heard Miss Carr several years ago when she sang before the Tuesday Afternoon Club are hoping she may decide to join Glendale's musical colony.

AMERICAN LEGION ENTERTAINMENT

Plans for a right royal good time at their meeting on the evening of May 20 were made by an American Legion entertainment committee which met in the office of Attorney James F. McBryde last evening.

FRENCH SATISFIED WITH ACCEPTANCE

(By International News Service)
PARIS, May 11.--"The French government is extremely satisfied with Germany's acceptance of the ultimatum, thus avoiding military occupation of the Ruhr," said an official statement issued at the foreign office today.

"At the same time Germany assures France of the right to occupy the Ruhr in the future if the Germans balk. The government feels that Germany's action in large part, resulted from the conviction that the rest of the world was convinced of her ability to pay."

ADDRESSES BY DR. LYMAN B. SPERRY

Evils of Narcotics, Alcohol and Immodest Dress
Explained

Dr. Lyman B. Sperry, widely known lecturer, gave four addresses to the students of Glendale schools yesterday on "The Science of Living."

Dr. Sperry's services were secured by Mrs. C. A. Brandt, appointed superintendent of scientific temperance in the public schools by the Women's Christian Temperance Union. Lectures were delivered in the high school, Intermediate and Corritos avenue, and also in the church school maintained by the Seventh Day Adventists of Glendale.

Dr. Sperry in his address at the high school yesterday afternoon emphasized the fact that every boy and girl has his choice in life of success or failure. Success he defined as the developing and manifesting in one's life of the image of God, in whose likeness and image every soul is made.

This success means self-respect, the respect of one's fellows, the development of one's God-given talents for the good of humanity and for one's own personal good, the lecturer explained, and it can be obtained only by right living, which means the practice of self-restraint, self-control and temperance in all things.

Dr. Sperry explained the evils of the use of narcotics, alcohol and immodest, vulgar dress and how they militate against real success in life.

BIG DOINGS AT CENTRAL CHRISTIAN

Tonight at 6 o'clock the usual supper will be served to church members and their friends at Central Christian church. This will be followed by a great prayer service, during which Rev. Cole will preach a short sermon and an opportunity will be given to join the church. The regular monthly meeting of the official board will be held afterward and the plans for the new building, approved by the building committee, will be presented, for final action.

A large and very attractive electric sign has been erected for the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, at the southwest corner of the grounds, which is the northeast corner of Broadway and Jackson.

TWO ARE SERIOUSLY INJURED IN SMASH

DALY CITY, Calif., May 11.--Robert Skellinger and E. G. Mahin received injuries which may cause their death, in a collision on the highway near here today between a motorcycle and an automobile. They were found in an unconscious condition by other motorists and as yet have been unable to tell of the accident. The motorcycle and the automobile were badly wrecked and the two injured men were found in the wreckage. From indications Mahin was riding the motorcycle and Skellinger driving the car. Mahin's windpipe was severed.

More Permits

J. F. Stanford took out two permits this morning, one for an 8-room duplex residence at 367 West Harvard, corner of Columbus, to cost $7000, and the other for a 4-room residence at 628 Alexander, to cost $2500.

By lifting the hand you can distinguish by the pressure and the muscular effort the difference between a weight of 19½ and one of 20 ounces.

IMMENSE AUDIENCE AT THE LAST TABERNACLE SERVICE

Beautiful Bouquets Presented to All Members of Brown
Evangelistic Party by Delegation of Young Girls--Attention Called to Meetings

REVIVAL MEETINGS WERE CLOSED LAST NIGHT

"The Last Call" Theme of Evening Sermon--Offering Taken and Given to Christian Endeavor Convention
Committee--Chautauqua Announcement

The closing meeting of the Tabernacle campaign last night was a mingling of joy, sadness and terrible earnestness. The meeting opened most joyfully with a presentation by a delegation of young girls of large and beautiful bouquets to Rev. Brown, Floyd Clark and Mrs. Neth, while Mr. Ironmonger, though absent, was not forgotten. There was also a bouquet for him.

The evangelist emphasized once again with great force the announcements for the great meetings in all the churches tonight and next Sunday. The Chautauqua announcement was repeated by Rev. Cole and most emphatically indorsed by Mr. Brown. An offering was taken to be turned over to the Christian Endeavor convention committee.

The theme for the evening sermon was "The Last Call," and the text was from Amos 4:12: "Prepare to meet thy God." The evangelist said: "God had at last lost patience with Israel and delivered this awful warning through the prophet Amos. So God now says these same words to you after He has led you and kept you from childhood and called you again and again to His service. There are three reasons why every person should make definite preparations to meet his God and it is the gravest step one can take to thus come out before the world and take a stand for Jesus Christ. But no man finds God by cold-blooded thinking, for Christ said 'ye must be converted and become as little children in faith.' Prepare to meet thy God, first because you must. Infidels as well as Christians all unite in believing one statement of the Bible, that 'It is appointed

GLENDAL STATE BANK OPENS IN JULY

Will Occupy West Half of Central Building at 109
East Broadway

Citizens who are interested in the proposed Glendale State bank have received assurance that it will be ready for business July 15. It is to be incorporated for 50 years with a capital stock of $100,000, which is to be divided between a savings department and a commercial department, 65 per cent being reserved for the commercial end of the business.

Charles H. Tol is one of the incorporators and will head the list of officials as president. C. D. Lusby, long in charge of the Glendale Savings bank, will be the cashier, and A. R. Eastman, vice-president and general officer in charge. Other members of the directorate will be W. E. Evans, Peter L. Perry, Howard W. Walker, Oma A. Fish, J. H. Braly and C. E. Kilmin.

The bank will occupy the west half of the Central building at 109 East Broadway, which will be remodelled to adapt it to bank uses, furnished with every modern banking equipment, including a safety deposit vault.

"EYES OF THE HEART" AT PALACE GRAND

Is it cruel to deceive when the deception is for a good end? Which was better--to leave a blind girl blind--and believing her friends good and beautiful--or to give her sight, with the bitter shock of finding them common crooks?

Such are the problems unfolded in "Eyes of the Heart," which is shown at the Palace Grand theater today. It is the newest Mary Miles Minter production for Realart and was adapted from the popular Ladies' Home Journal serial, "Blindness," by Dana Burnett.

As the blind girl whose restored sight brings a train of intensely dramatic revelations, Mary Miles Minter has a role entirely different from anything she has ever done. The struggle through disillusionment to happiness is said to be an especially rare piece of acting.

Certainly "Eyes of the Heart" satisfies the plea, that an exhibitor give his patrons a "variety" of amusement. The part of Laura gives the star a rare opportunity to prove to the motion picture public that she is really versatile and not a "one type" star.

Corporal of U. S. Army Resigns in Dusseldorf

(By International News Service)

PARIS, May 11.--When the French, British and Belgian troops recently crossed the Rhine and occupied Dusseldorf, Duisburg and Ruhrert, American troops stationed to the south of these towns, at Coblenz, stood still and watched. Nevertheless, the American army was represented at Dusseldorf by Corporal MacGill, who was acting as special correspondent of the Amaroc News, the official army organ.

Wearing a uniform, Mac soon became the center of attention of Dusseldorfers, many of whom wondering if he was a general, field marshal or simple soldier. Every time Mac met a German policeman the latter would sharply come to attention and salute, and Mac naturally returned the salute, though at times he found it a burdensome job. One night at a theater an American correspondent jokingly called Mac "General," and German waiters, having overheard this, began bowing to Mac and paying what he called undue attention to him.

During the first few days of occupation small groups of Germans, mostly workmen, would gather on the square facing one of the chief hotels of the town and discuss politics and the occupation. Evidently their comment was not too favorable to the Allies, for as soon as they saw Mac come along they quickly dispersed, although not a word was spoken. In the hotel where Mac lived the waiters would come to attention when presenting letters and bills and the Amaroc correspondent had to take the matter seriously. More than one French soldier saluted MacGill also, and he often had to call their attention to the fact that he was simply Corporal MacGill.

EXPORT PACKING IN BALES URGED

By Use of Scientific Methods
Immense Loss Can Be Greatly Reduced

CLEVELAND, May 11.—"Every dollar wrongly saved on our export packing means hundreds of dollars in the pockets of our foreign competitors," said C. C. Martin, of the National Paper and Type company, in addressing the eighth national foreign trade convention now meeting in Cleveland.

"Neglect of this matter on the part of American shippers cost the marine insurance companies in 1920, for theft and pilfering losses, the very respectable sum of $20,000,000; and we are told by certain unappeased critics that even this is too conservative an estimate, for a number of companies during the past year paid out individually more than $1,000,000 as a result of ignorance or indifference on the part of shippers. However, that greater loss, the direct result of poor packing, which is expressed in lack of prestige abroad, and orders that do not repeat, mounts up we are confident, to several times the maximum figure that has been mentioned.

"With reference to baling, I feel that the possibilities of this method of packing have not been fully appreciated, but as time goes on, practice will probably show just how useful the bale is as a labor and time-saving factor. The war department states in one of its bulletins that over $50,000,000 were saved during the war by baling various textiles instead of packing in cases, the experience of the war department being not alone interesting from the standpoint of the actual saving in money, but also from that of the variety of materials that were so packed, for bales went overseas containing underwear, hosiery, sweaters, gloves, coats, trousers, towels, blankets, tents, shoes, hardware and so on.

"The advantages of the bale are numerous; we have economy of the packing process as compared to that of casing, the saving of some 97 per cent in tare, great reduction in warehouse space, saving in damage, material reduction in cost of the packing, ease of handling, facility of transportation, and so on. It is quite possible that by making arrangements with the consignee many of our overseas shipments now cased could be baled, for that this method is entirely satisfactory with a very wide range of commodities, experience during the war clearly demonstrated."

Tuesday Afternoon Club Given Rare Musical Treat

ment that Robert Jensen of the Palace Grand theater had given the club a check for $50 as his contribution to its building fund.

Nominations for Officers

Mrs. John Robert White, as chairman of the nominating committee, presented its report as follows:

Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, president; Mrs. A. M. Williams, first vice-president; Mrs. Mabel F. Ocker, second vice-president; Mrs. Oliver Clark, recording secretary; Mrs. Mabel Rudy, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. M. Hunt, treasurer; Mrs. E. W. Hayward, trustee.

By-Law Changes

The report of the revision committee was submitted by Mrs. Harry Greenwalt. The most important changes in the by-laws to be voted upon at the next meeting, included the addition of three members to the board of directors; an enlargement of the powers of the board to contract debt without the vote of the club, from $100 to $200; an addition to sec. 4, article IV, providing that non-attendance of members of the executive board for three meetings without a good excuse or for five meetings with a good excuse, shall be equivalent to resignation and the vacancy shall be filled in the regular way; a provision that no officer or director shall hold different offices upon the board of directors, except in the case of election to the presidency; an increase in the membership fee from $5 to $10; an amendment to section 2, article VIII, providing that where the dues of a member are unpaid at the end of three months after the sending of due notice, the name shall be posted upon a bulletin board for 15 days and if not paid during that interval, the name shall be dropped from the roster of the club.

Monte Vista Welfare Home

Mrs. Ralph McKee, president of the splendid progress made on the kitchen of the Monte Vista home for undernourished children and the fine contributions made by Glendale lumbermen, dealers, carpenters, painters, etc.

Philanthropy

Mrs. Le Roy Bosserman exhibited some layettes which had been given her to meet needs in the maternity home, children's hospital, etc., to which the club is contributing and asked for more donations of money, clothing and marmalade.

Talk by Mrs. Dow

Mrs. Dow, of Chicago, prominent in war work and club activities in that city, was present and was introduced. In her brief response she declared that club work had justified itself, proving that it had trained women to work together efficiently during the war and since, in welfare work. She also stated that the Woman's Club of Chicago had been paying $11,000 a year in rental for headquarters on Michigan avenue but has now purchased a site for $110,000 and is planning to erect there on a building costing $1,000,000. Its members, she said, are not afraid of work, and they stand back of the American Legion, which comes next to child and woman's welfare, and they have offered to carry on any work the government might ask them to do.

Four Meetings a Month

Mrs. Hutchinson stated the club would be asked to vote on still another amendment providing for club meetings every Tuesday, one such meeting to be a luncheon with a speaker, at which would be discussed matters, foreign to entertainment, the other extra meeting to be turned over to one of the sections to provide a program.

The Last Word From Russia

Tom Skehill, Australian Soldier-Poet, Tells Thrilling
Story of Recent Russian Experiences

What of Russian today? What sort of men are Lenin and Trotsky? Is Bolshevism strengthening its hold in Russia or is it tottering? What are the Russian plans for distributing Bolshevik propaganda abroad? All these and many other questions Tom Skehill, the brilliant Anzac soldier-poet, will answer at Chautauqua on the fourth night.

Skehill spent the past winter in Russia, returning to America just in time for the present lecture tour of the West. He journeyed through France, Germany, Czechoslovakia and Poland on his way to the Land of the Bear. He will have much of interest to tell of the European situation generally.

National Hospital Day Observed Tomorrow

Open House Will Be Kept by Hospitals All Over United States—Observance of This Day Endorsed by President Harding—Appropriate Exercises

As a fitting celebration of the 101st anniversary of the birth of Florence Nightingale, the mother of the modern, systematized hospital idea, tomorrow, May 12, has been designated by President Harding as "National Hospital Day," and will be observed throughout the United States with appropriate exercises.

The purpose of the day is to interest the public in the splendid work the hospitals of the nation are doing in restoring the sick and injured to their normal places as human beings and enabling them to resume their places in the industrial and social activities of the world and to assume their share of the burdens of their respective communities.

To enlighten the public as to the true functions of modern hospitals, open house will be kept by hospitals all over the land tomorrow and newspapers of the country are giving the event wide publicity. In order that citizens may avail themselves of this opportunity to familiarize themselves with the splendid work of these institutions, to the end that they may take more intelligent, more active interest in the important work which the 8000 hospitals perform in caring for the 3,000,000 people who, according to the American Public Health Association, are sick every day.

When the people of a community thoroughly understand the ideals, achievements and needs of a properly conducted hospital, and the great service it performs in the matter of health education and the prevention of loss of health, just that soon will they give it their heartiest encouragement and support.

When people realize that hospitals are actually an economical asset to a community, they will enter heartily into plans for the expansion and development of these institutions. National Hospital Day is the first activity looking to this end. At present, few citizens of any community take a constructive interest in the hospitals that minister to their neighbors.

"The new Research hospital at Adams street and East Lexington drive will keep open house tomorrow afternoon. Visitors will be welcome at the Glendale sanitarium and hospital, 511 East Broadway. Thornycroft, sanitarium, 1104 East Windsor, will also receive the public tomorrow afternoon.

The observance of this day has been endorsed not only by the President of the United States, but also by Surgeon General Cumming and John J. Pershing, general of the United States armies, as well as by the governors of the various states; by mayors of cities and by civic, municipal and social organizations generally.

Besides receptions held in all Los Angeles hospitals tomorrow, the day will be further marked by joint graduation exercises of schools of nursing of four hospitals, at the Trinity auditorium in the evening.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB ISSUES WARNING

Trying to beat a train to a railroad crossing has brought so much grief to Southern California motorists in the last three and a half years that the automobile club today issues a warning which may well be taken to heart.

Up until the first of this year, 1909, automobiles were damaged or destroyed at the grade crossings of one railroad alone. In these autos 151 people were killed and 633 injured.

Officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California point out that 490, or more than 25 per cent of the grade crossing accidents recorded were caused by motorists running into the train. In 122 instances autos plunged through the crossing gates lowered to protect vehicles while the train was passing. One crossing flagman was killed and eight were injured by automobiles, while endeavoring to warn riders of approaching trains.

Following is a summary of the entire 1909 accidents, indicating the cause and manner of their occurrence as given to the automobile club by Southern Pacific officials:

Ran in front of train, 970; 136 killed, 405 injured.

Ran into train, 490; 9 killed, 165 injured.

Stalled on track, 229; 4 killed, 27 injured.

Ran into crossing gates, 122; 13 injured.

Ran into signs, signals, etc., 43; 1 killed, 8 injured.

Ran into crossing flagman, 12; 1 killed, 8 injured.

Skidded into train, 43; 12 injured.

It is important, says the automobile

INTERESTING HINTS FOR AUTO OWNERS

Our weekly "DON'T"—Don't allow your brakes to squeak. This disagreeable noise is usually due to uneven friction and may sometimes be remedied by changing the adjustment so that the gripping effect is equalized throughout the entire circumference of the brake drum. Another source of squeaking is the copper rivets which hold the brake lining in place. When lining is worn down a few drops of castor oil may act as a temporary remedy, although readjustment or renewal will eventually prove the more satisfactory.

The greatest automobile "density" in the United States is not in cities; 1920 census and registration figures show most persons per auto in the agricultural states of the west. The population per car in the 10 leading "density" states follow: South Dakota, 5.2; Iowa, 5.5; Nebraska, 5.9; California, 6.2; Kansas, 6.7; North Dakota, 7.1; Colorado, 7.3; Minnesota, 7.4; Nevada, 7.4; Oregon, 7.6.

club, that motorists should remember that the noise of their engine, no matter how slight, is often sufficient to drown the noise of an approaching train and they should therefore in all instances look in both directions before attempting to cross a railroad track, and where vision is obstructed they should stop and listen as well as look.

It is an actual fact, according to official testimony, that serious accidents have occurred in Southern California counties because motorists have really failed to stop, look and listen—particularly look.

"DEVIL'S DECOYS" IS SUBJECT OF TALK TO WOMEN

Choir Composed Entirely of Girls Led Song Service
at Tabernacle

To the surprise of some who visited the great Tabernacle yesterday afternoon, it was found to be full of women and girls assembled for the last special message which Evangelist Brown had to give them entitled, "The Devil's Decoys." A girls' choir led the audience in the brief song service and then the preacher launched into one of the most earnest sermons he has delivered since he came to Glendale.

The three main decoys of the devil as he enumerated them are: Gambling, drink and dancing. The chief point he sought to make was that the saloon, the public dance hall and the gambling den are the last steps rather than the first steps in the downfall of young people; that not until they had been gripped by the appetite for drink or the passion for the dance and for gambling would they descend to those levels. He argued that a knowledge of these things had first come to them in their own homes or other respectable homes, the taste for that sort of pleasure had been cultivated until they were ready to indulge it in any company and fell into dangerous currents which swept them away. He insisted that the members of the church who countenance cards and dancing and who with no malicious intent encourage young people to amuse themselves in that way, are as certainly decoys as are the ducks maintained by hunters in their game preserves.

He repeated the statements made in other addresses in regard to the awful tide of immorality and impurity and the contagious diseases that have followed in the wake of the war, and urged mothers to very seriously regard their responsibilities for the moral welfare of their children.

He referred to the fact that in spite of national prohibition the drunkard is still getting his dram. Said he: "What does it mean when we close the saloon and it does not stop drinking; we close the gambling den and it doesn't stop gambling? Some day we are going to awaken to the fact that these things are the direct cause of damnable conditions that exist in the so-called upper world; that the under world is manipulated and controlled by the higher ups who claim to be respectable. We need a mighty revival of righteousness in the so-called upper circles and when these circles come right and the home comes right, and we quit leading our children hitherward, we will not have these bad conditions to take care of."

Immense Audience at the Last Tabernacle Service

unto man once to die. And does the grave end all? Never. Remember the rest of the saying just quoted and after death the judgment. All must die and all must appear before the judgment bar of God.

"The second reason is because at an awful cost God has prepared a way for all to meet Him and it is by truly living the Christian life. And, after all, the prepared life is the normal Christian life.

"The third reason is because the Bible teaches that 'it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.' If you want Christ to stand for you up there, you must stand for Him down here and that is the brave, fruitful, normal Christian life, the happiest one can conceive of. For God's sake let's come clear for Christ. May He save every unsaved man, woman and child in this audience!

When the invitation was given to the unsaved, the backsliders and the non-affiliated church members, there was a great response, the young people, as usual, leading the way.

OBITUARY

Edward E. Keller

Edward T. Keller, who came to Glendale about four years ago in the hope of recovering his health, passed away May 10 at his home, 1000 East Windsor road, at the age of 47. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Mymne May Keller, and three children—Norman, Selgmund and Eva Rosalie. For many years he was a traveling salesman for a house in Chicago where he was employed as a member of Damascus Lodge No. 1, F. and A. M. Funeral services will be held in the parlors of the Jewel City Undertaking Company at 1 p. m. Thursday afternoon. They will be in charge of Unity Lodge No. 368, F. and A. M., of Glendale and interment will take place at the Home of Peace cemetery in Los Angeles.

"THE THIEF" AT GLENDALE THEATER

William Fox has given Pearl White another masterpiece in which to display her power on the screen. It is Henri Bernstein's "The Thief," to be shown at the Glendale theater today for the last time.

Miss White is making just as big a name for herself in dramatics as she did in serials. She gets the serial thrill into all of her pictures, and her personality always lends an added interest to the big stories selected for her.

In "The Thief" which was a successful play on both hemispheres, she has a story that holds its intense interest to the end—which is a climax with a big surprise.

Max Marcin and Paul H. Sloane wrote the scenario and Charles Giblyn directed the picture.

Water Power Action Delays Development

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Lack of appropriation for investigation by the federal water power commission of applications is delaying the development of 12,000,000 horsepower in the west, and is holding up the employment of 700,000 men, according to data received by Senator Samuel M. Shortridge from the national association of manufacturers through D. M. Edwards, who has been making a fight for this development.

Wingrove Bathon, assigned to make a survey of the water power situation in the west, has reported to American Industries, that is an attempt to speed up federal action, Henry J. Pierce, of Seattle, as spokesman for many western interests, has been in Washington conferring on water power matters.

According to Bathon's report, in explaining that it will cost $1,500,000,000 and create for the country values of that amount to develop the 12,000,000 horsepower, or more, for which applications for permits have been filed with the commission, Mr. Pierce stated to congressional committees that "the labor that would be employed would equal 700,000 or 800,000 men for a number of years; would cheapen the cost of many necessities of life, and would be of direct benefit to every inhabitant of the United States."

Continuing Mr. Pierce said: "The foreign nations—France, Italy, Sweden, and other countries—immediately after the close of the war, turned their attention to the development of their water power. The shortage of coal had given them a tremendous object lesson as to the value of power, and the very first thing of a constructive character they did was to begin the utilization of their wasting water powers. The foreign countries have very cheap labor, which the United States has not, and the development of their water powers is going to give them cheap power. With these two elements of cost upon a very cheap basis foreign countries will be placed in a commanding position in bidding for the markets of the world. If we are going to compete with foreign countries in exports we must at least have cheap power for industrial uses."

"We have in our western country over 10,000,000 acres of land which cannot be reached by gravity water, and can only be reclaimed by water pumped by the electric power now wasting in our rivers and streams. It would require fully 5,000,000 horsepower to operate these pumping plants. An agricultural population of 500,000 could be maintained on these acres and the products would tend to materially reduce the cost of living."

"The electrification of 1000 miles of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad has shown such economies in transportation costs—something over 30 per cent—that all of the railroads west of the Rocky Mountains, from Mexico to British Columbia, now desire to electrify their lines, but can not do so until the water power is developed. One-third of the entire carrying capacity of a railroad is required to carry coal for its own consumption.

"There exists in every portion of the United States at the present time an acute power famine. Seventy per cent of the water power resources of the United States are located west of the Rocky Mountains, while 80 per cent of the power used, whether produced from coal, from oil, or from water power, is east of the Mississippi River. Yet the shortage of power is relatively as great upon the Pacific Coast as in the large industrial and thickly populated sections of the east and south."

"Naturally the largest potential horsepower is in the mountainous west—in Washington, 8,647,000; in California, 7,818,000; in Oregon, 6,613,000; in Idaho, 5,067,000; in Montana, 4,331,000; these figures being those officially compiled by the forestry service. But the question of water power development, and the crying need for it, is not solely a western question. In New York state there are water power resources of 1,698,000 horsepower; in West Virginia, 1,061,000; in Pennsylvania, 684,000; in Maine, 809,000; in Virginia, 870,000; in Alabama, 943,000. Texas and Wisconsin each have more than half a million horsepower."

"As O. C. Merrill, secretary of the federal power commission, recently announced, the projects for which applications for permits have been made, range all the way from a small 10-horsepower plant for a colony of summer cottages in the Wyoming mountains to the tremendous project under consideration on the Colorado river in Utah and Arizona, which involves the storage of the waters of the upper Colorado and its tributaries in a huge reservoir and the ultimate development of more than 3,000,000 horsepower by using those waters through a drop of 2650 feet."

"So true is it that the necessity for development of the water powers is practically nation wide, that applications for permits to construct have come, so far, from 27 states of the Union, as well as from Alaska and from the District of Columbia. The last total figures compiled at the offices of the commission represented the estimated figures of horsepower to be developed as 12,259,110, an amount which would furnish sufficient power for 20 industrial cities the size of Chicago."

"These figures represent 40 per cent more than the present water power development of the United States. They represent a third more than the total water power capable of being developed in the entire area of France, and 50 per cent more than the present developed water power of the whole world. This amount is five times greater than the total acted upon by the government in the preceding 20 years."

POPULAR SCIENCE

Encircling the vestibule with loops of steel wire cables, having a combined tensile strength of 2,000,000 pounds, is the novel plan of F. M. Brinckerhoff, New York consulting engineer, for preventing the telescoping and splintering of cars that cause so much death and injury in train wrecks. One cable would extend around the outer edge of the vestibule, with anchorage to the end posts; and a second group of cables would be embedded in the corner posts of the body of the car. In a collision an invading car would penetrate the outer loop, the initial shock being brought up on the vestibule end posts. The structure of the vestibule would be drawn in, vert its energy to the moving of the train. If this should not be sufficient, the resistance of the second group of cables would be encountered, making stoppage without entering the car fairly certain.

Higher plants have been known to endure unharmed in the open air at a temperature of 55 degrees C. (131 degrees F.), but actual growth at so high a degree is a new record established at the Desert laboratory in Arizona. Dr. D. T. McDougal reports in Science that a prickly pear (Opuntia) continued to grow at 55 degrees C. This genus of cacti begins growing at 30 C. (48 degrees F.), and reaches its maximum rate between 37 degrees C. and 49 degrees C. The colloidal condition of the pentosans or mucilages forming so large a proportion of the opuntia cell is in general less affected by high temperatures than the albuminous substances of other plants. But bacterial cells are highly albuminous, and certain bacteria endure boiling-water heat.

A mysterious skin disease of the beautiful stained glass of York Minister, England's famed cathedral, penetrates the material as minute holes, which gradually deepen and have caused such flaking that in places the thickness has been reduced to that of tissue paper. No remedy for this lamentable decay has been discovered.

Recent signalling development is believed to make it possible for a physician on shore to listen to the heart beats of his patient in mid-ocean. The special apparatus evolved at the signal corps laboratory in Washington takes up the faint sounds by a "heart-transmitter," amplifies them thousands of times, and makes them audible over a long distance. The transmitter, resting over the heart by its own weight, reproduces in an air chamber the various vibrations set up by the blood as it passes through the different valves of the heart. From this the vibrations are transmitted over the wire to an amplifying apparatus of standard signal corps vacuum tubes such as are used in wireless telephony and telegraphy, and the sounds are projected by a special receiver from a large horn. The difficulty of transmitting sounds so feeble is overcome by using a high-frequency carrier wave or line radio. This carrier wave is an electric current, which is deformed or broken up by the heart sounds and the changes taken along the telephone wire to the receiver, reproducing accurately the original sounds.

The continents stand at an average height of about 15,000 feet above the ocean bottom and their weight causing a pressure of 15,000 to 20,000 pounds per square inch on their bases is supposed to be causing a slow creeping of the land into the sea against the 5000 pounds of pressure by the water at the bottom. The rocks of mines are observed to creep under less pressure. In recent experiments two hemispheres of rock were fitted together by plane surfaces, and a cavity was ground in one or a steel washer was laid on it and the hemisphere were then forced together by hydraulic pressure continued for months, at room temperature. It was demonstrated that a pressure of 89,000 pounds per square inch will close even small cavities in granite, basalt, obsidian or limestone.

The "inhalatorium" of the French ministry of war is a hospital equipped with a plant of large retorts for generating heating gas, a system of distributing pipes and special booths where patients may inhale the gas for prescribed periods. Designed for gassed soldiers, the institution offers advantages in treating tuberculosis, bronchitis, and other respiratory diseases.

While the United States imported only $1,247,188 of natural dyes in 1919, the country made in the same year $71,778,919 worth of artificial dyes. Practically all of the artificial dyes are synthetically prepared and in a late Franklin institute address, Prof. M. T. Bogert, noted that the vast bulk of them are built up from five simple initial substances, or "crudes"—benzole, toluene, naphthalene, anthracene and carbolic acid. Five other basic substances less common but yielding imported dyes are—xylene, methyl, aniline, cresylic acid and carbazole. These ten crudes are all formed from the tar obtained when coal is heated to produce gas and coke and synthetic dyes are quite generally known as "coal tar dyes" even when made from crudes from other sources. The syntheses are usually in several stages and the finished product and about 300 of these intermediates are made commercially for the production of the world's 1000 synthetic dyes. Logwood is the most important of the natural dyes still imported, though there are small amounts of madder, turmeric and some others. Indigo, the oldest of all dyes, is now chiefly artificial, made from aniline. The coal tar dye intermediates are the source of the highest of important products besides dyes, including medicines, photographic developers, food preservatives, perfumes, explosives, poison gases and other war munitions, paints, inks, flavoring materials, artificial resins, plastics, tannins and others.

Spontaneous ignition of fire engine hose in use seems to be quite likely to occur. In the tests of A. H. Gill, the rubber hose was provided with two jackets of heavy cotton fabric, a 50-foot section, 2 1/2 inches in diameter being used and 250 gallons of cold river water was passed through a mirror-chafing from vibrations set up by the engine burned both jackets over a space of two inches. Different makes of high-grade hose and different types of fire engines, yielded the same result.

Orange vinegar proves to be practically the same as apple vinegar in color, odor and taste, and the United States citrus by-products laboratory has found no distinguishing characteristic. There is no reason to doubt that it may successfully compete with the best cider vinegar.

FORD INVENTS TORPEDO OPERATED BY WIRELESS

Prominent Inventor Makes Interesting Experiments at Chautauqua.

The opening event of Chautauqua week will be a lecture-entertainment of intense interest and real educational value, presented by Burnell Ford, prominent American inventor and electrical scientist. During the evening's lecture, Mr. Ford does some astonishing things with electricity; lighting candles with a stream of water; causing an electrical storm on the platform; setting off explosives by wireless, etc.

Burnell Ford is a recognized figure in the scientific world. He was called to Washington during the war to outline his plans for coast defense. One of his inventions which has attracted national attention is a torpedo which can be controlled from any distance by wireless.

MOONLIGHT HIKE OF INTERMEDIATES

The moonlight mountain hike which boys of Intermediate are to enjoy, will take place the last of the week. They will leave here for an ascent of Mt. Wilson Friday evening at 10 o'clock, by trucks which will take them to the foot of the trail, and they expect to reach the top by sunrise. Mr. Blanford, director of athletics for the city schools, Rex Kelley, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Mr. Cookman of the high school, will accompany the boys.

Saturday morning they will be shown through the observatory and will have a talk from Mr. Cookman on birds; games will be played, and other diversions enjoyed. The return trip will be made by way of Brookside Park, where the boys will have a good swim, returning to their homes in the afternoon.

MISCELLANEOUS STORIES

"The attitude of some of the Balkan countries reminds me of Johnnie, who got a promotion to the head of his department in the general store," remarked Senator Lodge at a dinner recently. "Johnnie was very proud of his new position, and when a certain young lady appeared whom he had greatly admired he was not slow in telling her the grand news. 'Indeed,' said the lady, 'are you really the head of the department now?' 'I'll prove it to you,' cried Johnnie, and turning to one of his co-workers roared in his most savage voice, 'Bill you're fired.'"

An advertisement manager was going home one night in a trolley. It was late, and the man who sat next him began to talk. "What business are you in?" he asked. "The advertising business." "Is that so? I used to be in the advertising business myself. I gave up though, and went into the rag-and-old-bottle business. I was a sandwich man for a theater for six months. Say," and he leaned over confidentially, "ain't it hard work when the wind blows?"

In the course of the debate on the emergency tariff bill Senator Thomas of Colorado informed the senate that he did not consider his chance of getting into heaven very good. Senator Thomas was discussing economy in government at the time. "The only measure looking to economy during the present session of congress," said Senator Thomas, "is the Borah resolution looking to naval and military disarmament, and I want to say to the senator from Idaho that his resolution is as much chance of getting through his congress as I have of getting to heaven." "Well, I would say under those circumstances it has a pretty good chance," replied the senator from Colorado. Senator Thomas also referred to the industrial situation. "Every industry in this country is paralyzed," he said, "with the possible exception of bootlegging."

It is doubtful if anyone ever saw Chauncey Depew when he was not equal to the occasion, and no matter how peeved he might be, he always had the faculty of seeing the funny side of the situation. Not the least amusing story told of him was a visit to a certain popular New York country resort, where nothing but the best in meat and vegetables, raised right on the place, were supposed to be placed on the table. Something about the meat seemed to throw Depew into a reminiscent mood and finally he asked: "What did you say this meat was?" "Spring lamb," was the prompt and almost challenging reply. "I believe you," answered Depew. "I've been chewing on one of the springs for an hour."

Some men never let an opportunity slip. They make the most of every chance, as, for instance, a certain organ-grinder who once played his organ outside the house of Mascagni, the famous composer. Mascagni is often driven wild by hearing his music "murdered" on piano organs, and on this occasion he left his house and interviewed the street musician. He did not send him away. He merely took the handle of the instrument, turned it around faster and quickened the time. The organ-grinder smiled his thanks. Next day he again appeared in the street. This time his organ bore a large placard, on which was inscribed: "Pupil of Mascagni." San Francisco Argonaut.

At a country dance in Alabama, when the fiddlers had resigned their bows and taken their places on the platform, the floor manager rose. "Git yo' partners fo' a cotillion," he shouted imperiously. "All yo' ladies an' gemmen dat wears shoes an' stockings take yo' places in de middle of de room. All yo' ladies an' gemmen dat wears shoes an' no stockings, take yo' places immediately behin' dem. An' yo' barfooted crowd, yo' jest jig it roun' in de corners."

WOMAN'S COZY CORNER

By JOSEPHINE FRANCE

SALAD AND BREAKFAST GOWN; CAN BE EATEN

Imagine wearing a gown that, in case of necessity, you could run through a food chopper and eat with sugar and cream? That's what this young lady could do with the gown she is wearing, created by Josephine. It is of a new fabric called Marabout silk, which is a composition of real silk and swamp grass which grows wild in the Louisiana delta country. Hitherto this swamp grass has been used as a salad or, when dried and chopped fine, served with sugar and cream as a breakfast food. The name "Marabout" was given the new fabric because that is the name of the swamps from which it is gathered. Because of its beauty (it has a lustre like jet), its extremely light weight and wearing qualities as well as low cost, the fabric promises to become immensely popular.

Among negligees are some original smoking sets, original in fabric perhaps rather than line. Cloth of gold, or satin in gold color was used for the pantaloons slip, with camisole top, wide crush sirdle and cuffs fitted tightly about the ankle. For the three-quarter length coat, orange velvet was in one instance selected, made more or less like a sports coat, with a Tuxedo front open to show the slip.

Besides these smoking sets, one of the most significant notes was struck by a tea gown following distinctly mediaeval lines in such details as an off-the-shoulder effect, close fitting bodice and front opening to show a petticoat of contrasting material beneath.

Formal tea gowns of transparent plain and broadened chiffons show clearly the cape influence, in sleeve arrangements, and the straight, back line from neck to end of the train, which is rounded or square, and not very long, just long enough to train gracefully on the ground.

The new undergarments noted in showrooms during the week just past add increased evidence to that already accumulated as to the importance of novelty colors in silk undergarments this season. This being the case it is natural that the silks which are guaranteed fast color should appear in greater quantities than ever before. In various weaves, crepe de Chine, rayon and crepe satin, these have generally been rather simply handled, with a minimum of ornamentation. A second interpretation of the color idea noted within the last few days is the two toned effect gained by posing a transparent silk of one shade over a different one.

Of greater interest perhaps has been the appearance of natural color pongee for well tailored undergarments of a high grade. Gowns, chemises and bloomers are made in this fabric, and are recommended especially for sports wear as the silk is durable and the tailored styles suitable for this sort of wear.

FOOD HANDLING AND DISEASE

With the fly season near at hand, Boston's health department has done well to decree a tightening of the regulations which insist on the proper sterilization of dishes, glassware, knives, forks and spoons in places where foods and drinks are served. The last epidemic of influenza warned us of the danger of laxity in these matters, and nobody can predict how long our present immunity from another visitation of the same kind will last. Meanwhile the disease-laden germ is always with us, floating in the air, settling on the things we touch, and easily communicable to the food we buy and eat.

Some progress has undoubtedly been made since bacteriologists first sounded the alarm against these ways of spreading infection. One modern remedy is the packing-case, of cardboard or metal; another is the paper wrapping which is now often provided for loaves. But there is still a vast deal of cross-counter handling which makes cleanliness of the first importance. Bread, rolls, biscuits and many other articles still have to be handled, and there is perhaps more handling of meat than of any other marketable product. The trouble would not be serious if the fingers of the seller came into contact only with the food; the handling has to be spread out to cover the whole business of carrying on a store. Boxes have to be drawn out and restored to their places; paper and string must be handled; there is the handling of the cash register, and finally handling of the germ-infected money which it contains—all as a preliminary to the handling of more food.

It is impossible, of course, to avoid many of these contacts under any system, but the maximum of precaution should be insisted on wherever eatables are sold, cooked or served. The neglect to furnish suitable nettings for articles of food which otherwise would be exposed to the atmosphere is inexcusable. Failure to clean and sterilize utensils that pass from hand to hand or from mouth to mouth is rightly penalized. And, so far as customers can be aware of such neglect, their preferences and aversions may properly be counted on to recruit the deterrent effects of legislation.

FOR EX-PRESIDENTS

Interest in pensions for ex-Presidents has been aroused again by the introduction in the Senate and House of bills for that purpose. The matter has fallen into disregard of late years because of the demonstrated capacity of ex-Presidents to take care of themselves financially. There is no question now of such capacity on the part of either Mr. Taft or Mr. Wilson. There is also recognition of the fact that old standards have changed, and a retiring President is not expected to withdraw entirely from active life and content himself with the role of sage.

It is not, however, merely a question of earning a living or continuing active in public and private life. Advocates of the pension idea point out that any man who has held the highest office in the United States occupies thereafter a special position of dignity and responsibility. He remains a public character, and cannot escape from that character. His voice and example carry weight in matters of national import. It is argued that the country should make such provision for him that he will be neither compelled nor tempted to undertake any kind of private employment which might interfere with his highest services to the country as a semi-official adviser in national affairs.

There are a number of private activities, perfectly proper in themselves, which might conceivably interfere with that role. It is urged, therefore, that the country could well afford to pay any ex-President a good salary, under the guise of a pension, as a sort of retaining fee.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW'S BIRTHDAY

The attainment of 87 years of age is not a "world doing" perhaps, but we like to take note of the fact that the genial Chauncey F. Depew has reached that ripe old age and believes he will live to be 100. We hope so. He has made the whole world sunnier by his wit and humor. He has lived a very simple life. He belongs to clubs, but seldom attends them. He says: "Practically all my evenings I spend at home save for an occasional visit to a play. Years ago I used to be at a public dinner somewhere or other almost every night in the week. Cards? No, I never play. I remember what Commodore Vanderbilt once said to me: 'Sonny,' he said, 'don't play cards unless you have a card head.' I haven't that, so I never play."

HONOR MOTHERS WITH FESTIVAL

Members of the Central Avenue Parent-Teacher association and the children of the school are anticipating a fine time together tomorrow afternoon, when the children of the school will entertain the mothers with a May festival on the lawn.

A flower opera is the pretty entertainment chosen by the pupils and teachers and ice cream and cake will be served after the program.

Election of P. T. A. officers for the coming club year will be held after the entertainment.

A. O. U. W. REGULAR MEETING TONIGHT

The Ancient Order of United Workmen will hold their regular meeting this evening in the Knights of Pythias hall, corner of Park avenue and Brand boulevard. Initiation of two candidates will be a feature of the evening. State Organizer Lisle will attend the meeting, at the close of which a social session will be held.

NEW GLENDALE-MONTROSE STATION

Now that the new Glendale state park has decided to establish itself in the west half of the Central building at 109 East Broadway, the Glendale and Montrose railroad, which has been using that portion of the building as a ticket office and waiting room, has arranged for more commodious and better equipped quarters in the new building to be erected by Howard Walker at the corner of Broadway and Maryland avenue. Ground has been broken there and it is expected to be ready by the time the railroad has need of it.

Has Shaved 42,299 Men.
(By International News Service)
ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 11.—George Glover, tonsorialist at the city hospital here, has shaved 42,299 men during the seven years he has been barbering. He has collected fees from 41,587 customers; only 673 have failed to pay him.

LESSONS IN BALLROOM DANCING, any day, any hour. Our simple method easily learned. Wood's School of Dancing, Piano, Elocution and Physical Culture, 122 West Milford Street, Phone Glendale 394.

American influence was the predominant factor in the whole course of modern German history.

1. It was the weight of the gigantic American military machine which finally turned the tide in favor of the allies on the western battlefield.

2. The German revolution in November, 1918, which led to the complete military collapse of Germany was attributed to President Wilson's declarations that America and the allied powers would not treat with the Hohenzollern government in making peace.

3. Secretary of State Hughes' note warning Germany to accept the allies' final indemnity terms is held mainly responsible for Germany's acceptance of the ultimatum.

JOHN BROWN'S BODY MARCHES ON AGAIN

John Edward Brown left Glendale on the 10:20 train last night for Redley and was to reach Redley at 10 this morning. He had intended to drive through in his auto, but it was badly in need of repair so was held over for a day and Floyd Clark, the pianist, will drive it up to Redley in the morning. Mr. Ironmonger went on ahead last Saturday, began organizing his choir Sunday and opened the meeting last night. Mrs. Neth did not go to Redley, but will take a trip soon to Houston, Tex., for Mr. Brown, then return to her Hollywood home to take up work again with her beloved girls.

J. F. Gasser, Tabernacle custodian and manager of the book stall, did not go to Redley, either, but after attending the shipping of the evangelistic company's property to Redley and the return of the articles loaded, will settle down in his Glendale home at 315 North Louise, and engage in some occupation here. Alvin Brown, John Edward's brother, is on the way from Siloam Springs to take up the duties which Mr. Gasser relinquished.

At the close of the campaign in Redley John Brown will return to his home in Siloam Springs, Ark., to remain till August, when he plans to return to California and open a meeting in Los Angeles. Probably two campaigns will be conducted in the big city, one in Hollywood, so that the evangelists' thousands of Glendale friends will get to see and hear him often. He certainly got mighty close to the hearts of every attendant of the meetings and all will watch for his future campaigns with absorbing interest. One and all say: "John Edward Brown, hail and farewell!"

GARBAGE AND REFUSE PROBLEMS

Many cities besides Glendale have garbage and refuse problems. Many of them are considering ways and means of making garbage disposal a source of income to the city rather than an expense to its citizens.

A. Lawrence, Kansas newspaper just received by Frank Booth, 318 East Broadway, describes a plan of garbage disposal under consideration in that city, by means of which leaves, rubbish and general refuse, as well as garbage, may be disposed of. Lawrence has under consideration a contract with the Nu-Fuel company, whose headquarters are in Baltimore, with branch offices and plants in Bloomington, Ill.; St. Joseph, Mo., and Sandusky, O. This company collects garbage in its own wagons two or three times a week, and takes it to the plant, where it is made into briquettes to be sold for fuel.

The Nu-Fuel company proposes to build its own plant in Lawrence at a cost of $75,000 to $100,000, the expense to be borne entirely by the company. These briquettes take the place of coal and would probably sell for $10 a ton.

The adoption of the plan has been discussed in Lawrence by the federation of women's clubs, the Rotary club, and other organizations. The mayor of the city intended to visit one of the cities where this company was operating a plant in order to investigate personally their methods of collection and disposal.

A. G. GLATT HAS AUTO ACCIDENT

How to Raise Good Boys

A negro mammy had a family of boys so well behaved that one day her mistress asked: "Sally, how did you raise your boys so well?"

"Ah'll tell you, missus," answered Sally. "Ah raise dem boys with a barrel stave, and Ah raise 'em frequent."

A woman 5 feet 2 inches in height may properly weigh 113 pounds; 5 feet 3 inches, 119 pounds, and 5 feet 4 inches, 130 pounds.

Self-determination is all very well, but just at present the world could get along with a little less selfish determination.

THE FRIENDLY ENEMY

A story that might be taken to heart by the factions that are making Ireland miserable is old in Frederick Lynch's "Recollections of Andrew Carnegie." When the circus came to town, Mr. Carnegie said, Pat had no money for a ticket. He offered his services to the circus manager for the price of admission. The manager said, "Pat, the lion died last night, and we saved his pelt. If you'll crawl into that till the show opens, you can see everything." Pat got into the pelt and was led to the cage. As he was getting in he saw a huge Bengal tiger growling at him from the farther end of the cage. "I'll not go into the cage with that terrible beast," he shouted. Whereupon the "tiger" lifted up its head and said, "Come right in, Pat; I'm an Irishman, too."

SUBTLE STUFF

A clerk in a mercantile house had quarter of a century's service with the firm.

Schmidt, the senior partner, handed him in the morning a large sealed envelope inscribed: "In memory of this eventful day."

The clerk gratefully accepted the envelope without opening it, but on a gracious hint from the chief he broke the seal. Inside he found a photograph of his employer.

"Well, what do you think of it?" inquired Schmidt, with a grin.

"It's just like you," was the ambiguous reply.—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

POOR FATHER'S MONOCLE

A boy fresh from school went down to breakfast and began at once to tell his mother about the term and what he had done.

"We've just started molecules," he said. "Awfully interesting. Jelly hard, though!"

"Ah, yes," said his mother, "very difficult. Your poor dear father never could keep his in his eye."—Pickup.

HIS VOCABULARY

Father recently came into possession of a new automobile and garage talk flew thick and fast between husband and wife with the result that son, called Wesley at the north side school, where he is learning that words are composed of syllables, sometimes became mixed in his school and garage talk.

After showing his mother the knowledge that had been forced on him that day in the way of new words, Wesley came to one with three syllables that was not entirely familiar and called to his mother for help with:

"Mother, how many cylinders 'in this word?'—Indianapolis News.

CANADA SHIP PLAN WINS

The Canadian house of commons, voting under closure rules, sustained the Meighen government in its ship-building program and granted the administration an interim supply vote for carrying on public expenditures for the first part of the present fiscal year. The vote stood 103 to 79 for the government.

SAFETY FIRST

A prominent New York debutante recently ordered "four seats on the aisle" at the theater. When her party arrived at the performance they were surprised to find themselves arranged in a column instead of a row. Nothing daunted, the debutante turned to a bored, middle-aged man next to her. Surely he would not mind changing with her friend in front.

"I beg your pardon," she said politely.

No reply. He must be deaf.

"I beg your pardon," she repeated, louder.

Still no reply.

"I beg your pardon," she said, bumping his elbow.

He took out a pencil and wrote on his program:

"That's my wife on the other side of me, Safety first.—New York Evening Post.

THE SAFER WAY

"Dad," said the financier's son, running into his father's office, "lend me $500."

"What for, my boy?"

"I've got a sure tip on the market."

"How much shall we make out of it?" asked the old man cautiously.

"A couple of hundred sure," replied the boy eagerly. "That's a hundred each."

"Here's your hundred," said his father. "Let's consider that we have made this deal and that it has succeeded. You make a hundred and I save five hundred."—Boston Transcript.

RATHER SKEPTICAL

"Pa, what is an ethnographic boundary?"

"It's an imaginary line, my son, that exists largely in the minds of idealistic statesmen, but will never figure to any great extent in either history or geography."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

HARMONIOUS CONSISTENCY

"What is the meaning of 'consistency'?"

"Consistency, my son, has to do with the fitness of things."

"I don't know just what you mean." "I will give you an example."

"Yes, sir."

"A freckle-faced girl in a polka dot dress, leading a coach dog."—Youngstown Telegram.

UNFAIR ADVANTAGE

"That's an alert office boy you have."

"This is his first day on the job," said Mr. Dubwaite. "Tomorrow I'll put him to the acid test."

"How?"

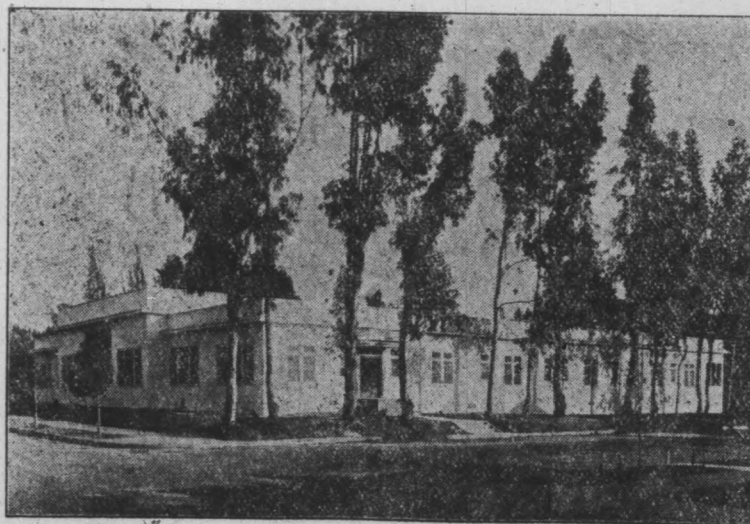

"I'll leave a 'dime novel' lying around where he can find it."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"TABERNACLE ECHOES"

There will be "Tabernacle Echoes" at the First Methodist Church this evening with two great meetings in progress. The church prayer meeting crowd will meet in the Sunday School room, while the young people with ages ranging from 14 years to 35 years will meet in the auditorium. These meetings will strike hard for 45 minutes and then close in time for attendance at the Chautauqua. It is earnestly requested that the whole church and "our friends" gather in these great prayer meetings. New converts and those who are to join by letter should be there. Especially are the young people urged to come to this, their own meeting. The services will begin at 7:00 (not 7:30, as usual), and close at 7:45.

THE GIRL ON THE JOB

How to Succeed—How to Get Ahead—How to Make Good

By JESSIE ROBERTS

LECTURE-TEACHING

IN PARIS, when our soldier boys were on leave and seeing the sights of the great city, it was common to meet an American girl taking a bunch of the boys through one or the other of the museums that make part of its glories. They made these trips interesting by telling stories about many of the famous pictures and statues.

Anna Curtis Chandler is doing something of the same sort in her Sunday Story Hour for children in the Metropolitan museum in New York city. She confines her work to the lecture hall, however, and illustrates what she says with stereopticon slides. But there is an idea here that might be carried out in many of our smaller cities and towns. There are often excellent little museums in such towns whose contents, if they were brought to the attention of the young people, and the older ones, too, would add immensely to the appreciation and understanding of art and beauty in a community, as well as to the knowledge of the history of art. A clever girl who wished to do this sort of work would have to take a course in art history. She would need to understand the different periods, to know the masters. She would be able to find much interesting material on which to build her stories, much human interest, too. Working with the co-operation of the curator, and advertising her talks in a way that would attract her fellow-townsmen, she might make a real success of this now little-worked form of lecture-teaching.

Improvement of Public Library Recommended

Representatives of Various City Organizations Meet and Discuss Inadequacy of Present Appropriation for Upkeep, Salaries and New Books

By invitation of the library board, representatives of various educational and social organizations of this city met last night at the library building and discussed public welfare relative to library work. Olin Spencer, chairman, presented the needs of the institution in a concise and clear manner, showing that money to purchase new books is of primary importance. He stated that Pomona, about the size of Glendale, had 45,000 volumes in their library, while Glendale had only 10,000, and that these were in circulation every 30 days. Mr. Spencer said while under the state law three mills on assessed valuation is allowable, that the largest assessment used at this time is that of the present year and amounted to one and one-half mills. He stated that after paying for upkeep and inadequate salaries to the employees, there was little left for the purchase of new books. Prof. Richardson D. White urged the board to ask the city trustees for the three mills, stating that the marvelous growth of the city had outstripped the library. He attested his willingness to assist as far as he was able in securing additional appropriations. Mr. White pointed out the close connection of library and schools and the necessity of furnishing the pupils with good reading material. The country, he said, has gone "jazz mad." It is seen in literature as well as in music. It is shown in the magazines and papers at every newsstand. Such material is not fit for our boys and girls to read.

Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson said she was in thorough sympathy with the movement for a better library and said: "The people should thoroughly understand that it is lack of funds that prevents their securing desirable books they need, and not the fault of the library authorities."

Mrs. R. E. Chase expressed her appreciation of the worth of the library to the community, praised Mrs. Danford and her assistants, and spoke in no uncertain terms of her sympathy with them in their endeavor to increase the usefulness of the institution by urging more funds.

Mrs. John Robert White urged passing resolutions to be sent to the city council, requesting the full three mills which the library should be allowed. Mrs. A. A. Barton expressed sentiments favoring a library of which our citizens would be proud and urged proper appropriations be made.

Mrs. Charles E. Barker of the library board spoke of the necessity of the library from an educational standpoint and pointed out that the proper way to get service is to encourage the employees in their endeavors.

Mr. Hill, Mr. Cushing and Mr. Usilton were in thorough accord with the sentiments expressed for a better library and larger expenditures to enable the board to carry out the improvements planned.

After the discussion, Mrs. Danford and her corps of capable assistants served the guests with ice cream cake, coffee and mints.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES

The Giants bowed to the Cards, who outslugged them. Shultz and Young got home runs.

Babe Ruth's ninth homer won for the Yanks against Detroit. Carl Mays gave up but five hits.

Dutch Reuther took keen delight in trimming the Reds for Brooklyn. Homers by Hargrave and Wheat were hitting features.

Maranville's great play made Boston Brave supporters mournful. The Pirates were also aided in their victory by Cooper's pitching.

Red Faber allowed the Red Sox but six hits in Chicago.

Bagby and Caldwell of the Indians were battered by the fast going Senators in the first game at Cleveland.

CONFIRMATION

Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, who with numerous clubwomen was on her way to the St. Paul biennial, suggested to the group that each relate the worst "heck" ever received, and confessed this:

"Uncle Rastus came to me one day and said: 'Mrs. Pennybacker, all de niggers bin discussin' which am de smartes', you or Mr. Pennybacker, so I says to them 'I'd up and ask you.'"

"Hoping to appear modest, I replied: 'Why, Rastus, Mr. Pennybacker is the smartest, of course.'"

"Whereupon Rastus gave a joyous laugh. 'Dat's jes what I bin tellin' dem niggers!'"—Judge.

HELPING HIM OUT

"Judge, be easy on me."

"Why should I be lenient?"

"Because a concatenation of unforeseen circumstances precipitated me into this deplorable predicament."

"Well, I'll do the best I can for you. You seem to have a liking for long words, so I will send you to a prison where there is a good library and you can learn a few more."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

In a few more weeks the men who laugh at women's clothes will be sweating in coats they haven't the courage to pull off.

The Other Card

By MARY ANN FORD

[The characters and situations described in this story are suggested by incidents coming under the writer's notice in the daily routine of life.]

Ellis' intentions were not matrimony, mama was enough of a clairvoyant to see that; necessarily she must impress her daughter with this fact. In the course of the argument mama worked herself into a fine fit of hysteria.

"There do you think you are?" Laura inquired leisurely, glancing about the room. "There's not a camera man in sight; now, cut out the emotion. Of course Ellis isn't going to marry me—who ever thought he would? Not I, I assure you. I acknowledge my cleverness, but I'm not going to overwork it by marrying someone nearly my equal. No, indeed, I might as well join some secret service and throw away my union button."

Mama Garden's tragic sobs died a pathetic death. Mama wiped away a big tear and amazingly eyed this sophisticated daughter of hers.

"Laura, we're nearly broke," mama confided to the innocent one.

Laura's red lips parted, ever so slightly. A long French mirror reminded her that she was a graceful smoker. "Let's go to bed," she said.

Ellis drove along a quiet, deserted street at 2:30 a. m., with Laura Garden's kiss still warm upon his lips.

For he had just left her, and he wasted a lot of sympathy upon the poor little duckling's fate, for she was going to lose him. Ellis felt as much.

Ordinarily he didn't trouble himself about a girl's future, but Laura was so different, and she would look pathetically sweet with a broken heart.

Like a wonderful white lily, crushed and dying. Ellis found himself wishing that she was never stricken in, in which case he could supply her with the essentials of life, lecture her upon her future conduct and good behavior, and send her to a business college where she would be taught a practical method of self-support, only, of course, this would never happen, for the little innocent's mother was simply a lodestone of wealth.

By taking an active part in the everyday affairs of life, the girl might possibly live, but she could never love anyone else. Ellis pictured her growing old, sad-eyed and sweet-faced; a veritable inspiration for young artists and poets.

After several moments of reviewing, and revising this interesting topic, Ellis found himself turning into the street the name of which was given below the name of Newport, on a page of his memorandum book.

He drove slowly.

Now, there are unimaginative persons, who honestly believe that windows were made to admit fresh air and sunlight into a room, but the writers of fiction know better. Windows were built into a wall for the convenience of lovers, for dames to lean their white foreheads against and sigh and act tragically romantic.

STUDIO NEWS AND GOSSIP

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—By far the most absorbing topic of conversation in Hollywood cinema circles is that which concerns the invasion of this country by foreign films. Every time the subject is mentioned there is a mental shimmying verging on the vociferous in the minds of many of the men and women who are dependant upon the pictures for their bread and butter and raiment, for the unrestricted admission to this country of foreign-made pictures means calamity for all concerned. The cheapness of photoplay talent, especially in Germany, the evident mastery of screen technique there; the manifest ability to turn out pictures with a punch and spectacular features which really can be approached in this country, either in cast or excellence, are cited as reasons why all branches of the American industry should unite in an effort to erect a tariff barrier that will keep the pictures outside the boundaries of the United States. It goes without saying that the menace is not being overlooked by those most interested and a propaganda campaign may now be launched at any time.

Two Stars Quitting Metro

The fact that Metro does not intend to renew the contracts of May Allison and Nazimova is causing all sorts of gossip in the colony. Nazimova's retirement from the Metro screen has been forecast, but the coming departure of May Allison from the studio has been in the nature of a surprise.

Nazimova, everybody concedes, is a great, a wonderful actress, but in the matter of pictures she has been contenting her own destiny. She has been doing her own directing, the payroll director being only an automaton—a mere puppet.

"Yes," said a screen gossip, "Nazimova is paying the price for being the high-boss-mogul of her productions. As an actress there is no one entitled to greater renown; as a director she hasn't measured up to the standard. Therefore, Metro is not renewing her contract."

Just what Nazimova will do is not known definitely. Close friends say she has been planning a return to the legitimate stage for some time.

May Allison's case is different. It is rumored that she has tired of studio conditions and is desirous of becoming a free lance star. Miss Allison's popularity with fans is not on the wane, although her friends say that recent stories supplied her have not given her the opportunity of scoring with her old time zip. These same friends aver that in a new environment she will have no trouble in retaining the hold she has upon the affections of picture fans the world over.

Bill Duncan in Westerns

William Duncan, for several seasons a Vitaphone serial star, has started work on a western feature production for a seven-reel release. Bill, in renouncing his crown as king of the black-and-blue dramas, is suspected of now reaching for the scepter recently shelved by Bill Hart. The picture will be titled, "The Princess of the Desert Dream."

His recently acquired wife, Edith Johnson, who has played opposite him in recent serials, will have the second featured role.

Monte Blue in Hospital

Monte Blue, Lasky star, has been given a lay-off from picture-making duties for at least one month. He is now resting in a Los Angeles hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

Doris May to Marry

It is now definitely announced that Wallace McDonald, popular screen leading man, and Doris May, former Thomas H. Ince star, will be married on May 25.

Max Linder is Homesick

Max Linder, French screen comedian, is not satisfied with his lot in America or with his reception by its picture fans. He is of the opinion that he is not understood and is thinking seriously of transferring his cinema operations to his native country. He has just finished his second picture for Pathe.

Two New Ince Pictures

"Mother O' Mine" is the title of Thomas H. Ince's next release through the Associated Producers. It was adapted by C. Gardner Sullivan from the "Octopus," by Charles Belmont Davis. Lloyd Hughes, Joseph Kilgour, Betty Blythe, Claire McDowell and Betty Ross Clark are the featured players. Gripping scenes, such as a courtroom trial, a spectacular midnight race of a motor car and a train through a raging storm, lavish settings and some unusually fine innovational camera effects are said to make the production one of the very best in the long line of Ince successes.

"The Cup of Life" has also been completed at the Ince studio. Its working title was "Pearls and Pain." The principal roles are handled by Hobart Bosworth, Madge Bellamy, Tully Marshall and Niles Welch. It is a tale of the East Indian fisheries. Bosworth has the part of "Bully" Brand, "head of the Pacific." A feature is a fight in which Bosworth and Welch figure, and which is dimly but effectively silhouetted against the light paper walls of a Chinese mansion.

Ed Brady, the screen villain of a thousand thrills, and Jean Acker have prominent roles in the latest Universal feature, "The Scarlet Shawl," starring Carmel Myers.

Harry Carey, western star, has finished the filming of "Christmas Eve at Pilot Butte," and will shortly begin work on his first Universal-Jewel super-feature.

Priscilla Dean and her company will film scenes for her forthcoming picture, "Conflict," in the timber lands of Oregon. It will be a Universal-Jewel feature.

Gladys Walton, Universal star, is 18 years old. Her latest feature, "What Can You Expect," is said to be an "interesting study of the growing generation."

Bebe Daniels, Reelstar star, recently released from the Orange county jail, where she was confined 10 days for speeding, is now working on "One Wild Week," an original photoplay by Frances Harmer.

Automobile Collision

Glaring headlights caused a head-on collision of autos on North Verdugo road last night, according to a report to the police by W. A. Hoffman, whose address is given as route 13, box 697. He says the lights of a machine driven by a Mr. McDonald blinded him and he could not avoid a collision. The front wheels of the two machines locked and were considerably damaged, but no one was hurt.

Postpone Festival

The May festival which was to have been enjoyed at Central avenue school last Friday and which was postponed, will take place this week, Thursday at 1:30 p. m. It will be a kind of program party for mothers and children, and promises to be a very happy afternoon for all concerned.

Innocence Imposed Upon

(By International News Service)

BOSTON, May 11.—When you want to find illicit liquor look in the baby's crib.

At least, that's the advice the Cambridge police give after their experience. They searched the whole apartment of Paul Turco, at 39 School street, in vain, but when they rifled the mattress beneath two children peacefully asleep in a crib they found 32 full pints of gin and whiskey.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"SALARY."

ADMITTEDLY a necessary part of everyone's diet, salt, was formerly much more of a luxury than it is at present. Deposits of it were comparatively scarce and the commodity was distinctly high-priced. It was for this reason that salarium or "salt money" was included as part of a Roman soldier's pay—much as, in the sixteenth century, "pin money" was given to wives for the purchase of pins, then made by hand and quite expensive.

From his allowance of "salt money" the word "salary," as applied to payment for services rendered, was gradually evolved, and it is to the same source that we owe the common colloquial expression that a person "is not worth his salt."
